

Currency.com California Privacy Notice

Last Updated: June 18, 2021

Beginning January 1, 2020, the California Consumer Privacy Act (“CCPA”) gives California residents certain rights with respect to the processing of personal data (known as “personal information” under the CCPA).

This supplement provides additional privacy disclosures and details additional rights and should be read in conjunction with our Privacy Policy.

1. Collection of Information

Section 1 of our Privacy Policy sets forth the categories of personal information that currency.com collects and processes about you, a description of each category, and the sources from which we obtain each category. Section 2 describes how we use your personal information, and Section 3 describes our sharing practices.

2. Your Rights

2.1. Right to Know

Under the CCPA, you have a right to request information about our collection, use, and disclosure of your personal information over the prior 12 months, and request that we provide you with the following information:

1. Categories of and specific pieces of personal information we have collected about you.
2. Categories of sources from which we collect personal information.
3. Purposes for collecting personal information.
4. Categories of third parties with whom we share personal information.
5. Categories of personal information disclosed about you for a business purpose.
6. If applicable, categories of personal information sold about you and the categories of third parties to which the personal information was sold, by category or categories of personal information for each third party to which the personal information was sold.

2.2. Right to Delete

You also have a right to request that we delete personal information, subject to certain limitations under applicable law.

2.3. Right to Opt-out From Sale

You may request to opt-out of any “sale” of your personal information that may take place. We do not rent or sell personal information and take care to not enter into any data sharing arrangements that could constitute a “sale” under the CCPA.

3. Non-discrimination

We will not discriminate against you for exercising any of your rights under the CCPA.

4. Requests to Exercise Your Rights

To submit a request to exercise any of the rights described above, please email us at privacy@currency.com.